[SEGMENT 0]

Scene starts with jazz music playing in the back on top of the sound of a clock ticking(number of ticks could correspond with the number of storylines) and nothing to be seen in the view. As the music starts to fade, the sound of the clock remains as the only sound in the scene. The room slowly becomes visible in the view. As the last tick of the clock happens, the living room is now completely visible. (jazz music ↓ + clock ticking ↑)

Dear [unreadable]:

I am so glad to hear that you are doing better. I really hope that you will be able to [unreadable] soon.

As much as I would like to [unreadable]as soon as possible, my situation has left me with no choice but to push that back.

But you have no idea how happy the [unreadable] you sent me last time make me feel, they honestly made my day :)

My days are not going as good as I wanted it to be… my [unreadable] is still stressing me out, that is part of the reason why I could not [unreadable] you even if I wanted to…

I'll write to you soon, I hope tha ------

*Scene starts with the sound of birds chirping outside, in the living room. (birds chirping + ambient sounds?)

You find yourself waking up on the couch in the living room again, feeling disoriented.

"How did I end up on the couch again?"

"...Guess it was a weird dream"

(1.1)You get up from the couch and turn on the TV.

(1.5)As you reach deeper inside the fridge to grab some lettuce, you touch something that feels like paper. It feels like printer paper.

"Wait, since when did I put…"

(1.6)[KNOCK KNOCK KNOCK]

(M1.1-)The sudden knock makes your entire body tense. You quickly withdraw your hand from the fridge and turn towards the door.

(M1.2-)Without thinking, you quickly pick up a knife from one of the drawers and hold it tight in your hand.
(1.7)You can hear the sound of heartbeat pulsing in your ears.

(-M1.1)"Hey bud! I've got today's mail!"

You slowly motion towards the living room, seeing a letter on the floor by the door.

"Did ya finally hang yourself in that shithole house mate? Hahahahaha."
You can hear the mailman's voice behind the door.

You grip even harder onto the knife in your hand, wishing that he would just leave already.

"If you ain't dead, at least make some sound, mate."

"Why is this guy still here?"

You reach down to pick up the letter on the floor. Just as you are bending down, (1.8)the knife in your hand slips and drops onto the floor, making a cracking sound.

You could almost hear a brief second of hesitation from the other side of the door.

"Interesting sound you are making in there, but glad to know that you are alive I guess."

You feel your heart beating faster than ever, you could feel your hand shaking as you grip on it.

"Oh by the way, I know you play with them camera things and all that. Is it cool if I get you to take some pictures of me and my wife?"

(-M1.2)(M0.2-)As if the worry and fear that have just devoured you are stripped away, you suddenly feel a sense of peace surrounding you.
You relax your hand that is holding the knife up, you feel your brain running fast as you try to think what to make of the situation now.

"SURE."

"Perfect, then. I'll talk to my wife about it and set up a date with you later, thanks mate!"

(1.9)As the man walks away, you turn around and sit on the couch. You hold up the unopened letter, with the back of the envelope facing you.

(1.10)You open the letter.

You reach down to pick up the letter on the floor, as you do so, (1.8)the spatula in your hand hits the floor and makes a cracking sound.

"Alright alright, good to know you still alive."

"Oh by the way, I know you play with them camera things and all that. Is it cool if I get you to take some pictures of me and my wife?"

(-M1.1)(M0.2-)You find yourself smiling at the thought of taking some new photos as you stand in the middle of the room, still holding onto your spatula.

"SURE."

"Perfect, then. I'll talk to my wife about it and set up a date with you later, thanks mate!"

(1.14)You return to the kitchen, you stare into the pan and see that the eggs are burning.

(1.15)You stick the spatula right through the burnt eggs, causing them to sizzle loudly.

"Guess that's a no for breakfast."

(1.9)You return to the couch in the living room, as you hold the unopened letter, with the back of the envelope facing you.

(1.10)You open the letter.

[SEGMENT 2]

On the right side of the magazine, there are colored portraits of the same individuals. They are in a rather casual setting, looking relaxed.

However, neither of the pages say anything about the photographer.

You step into the bathtub, and just before you turn on the showerhead, you notice a few red stains near the drain.
(2.4)You reach down and try to rub it off, but it seems that the stains have been there for a long time, you'd need something stronger than your hand to clean it.

"How did blood get here?"

You try to see if there is any cut on your body but can't find any. It puzzles you, but you figure it was probably just a cut from a while ago. It must have healed by now.

(shower sounds)

(2.3)(Noise from outside the bathroom)

Just as you begin getting back to your shower, you think you hear the sound of a door opening and closing outside the bathroom.

(M2.3-)You freeze in place and try to determine if you just imagined it.

As you try to concentrate and focus on your ear, you hear footsteps and scraping. Whoever it is seems to be moving something.

You get out of the shower without turning off the water and roughly dry yourself with a towel.

(M2.3-)You freeze and try to determine if you just misheard it.

(2.7)As you try to focus your hearing, you notice a heavy scraping sound. It sounds like someone moving furniture somewhere in the house.

(2.8)Your hands go cold. Your heart is beating so hard, it becomes the only sound that you can hear other than the noise from the other side of the bathroom door.

You know that whoever or whatever is in your room could be dangerous, but you still feel the need to go out and see what is actually going on.

(2.12)Just as you are about to ask him what he is talking about, you again hear noises inside the house.

This time you're sure you weren't mishearing anything. The noise is coming from the locked door.

(2.14)(-M2.6)You feel yourself falling, and as the broken lock hits the floor, you pass out completely, falling onto the floor.
(2.15)

[O:2-4.2 Inspect the Lock]

A familiar feeling washes over you. You notice, for the first time, a small weight in your pocket.

(2.16)As if you have done this a million times, you reach into your pocket, take out a bronze key, and open the lock on the door.

(2.10)The door slowly opens in front of you, there is nothing to be seen but some dimmed red lights on the far end of the room.

You peek your head in the doorway to try to get a better view of what's inside.

* Just as you are about to see what is inside the room, the image of the black/white and colored photos flashes again in your head. *

(-M2.6)The scene ends, fading into total darkness.

Scene starts in the PHOTO ROOM, the view slowly becomes more recognizable as the only light source is a safelight hanging from the ceiling, making the entire room glow in red. In the right corner of the room is a round hanger with numerous photos and negatives hanging from it. On the left side of the room, there is a giant metal sink with a couple metal barrels on the side. On top of the barrels stands a big stopwatch. The only sound there is water dripping from the sink.

(M3.1-)You find yourself waking up on a bean bag, directly facing the center of the photo room, where three trays lay on a table with a dark liquid in them. Red light soaks everything in the room in a crimson glow.

The light and the smells of the liquid give you a sense of familiarity, but something feels off.

As you approach the three trays, you recognize that the liquids in the containers are developer in the leftmost container, stop bath in the middle one, and fixer in the rightmost one. The enlarger stands on the left of the developer tray.

Next to the table is a bucket of water, in which a photo is floating. From what you can tell, it's been in there for around 30 minutes.

(2.9)You pick up the tongs laying next to the containers and pick up the photo from the bucket.

It's clearly been soaked for too long but you can still recognize that it is a photograph of a person, seemingly a middle-aged man.

You leave the photo on the table.
→ [O:3-1]

[O:3-1.2 Hanger]

(1.9)You walk over to the hanger in the far right corner. On it hangs some photos in black and other white and others in color. All of them are portraits of different individuals. At the back of the hanger, there are several negatives with some of them labeled as "printed".

You look closely at the pictures, trying to identify the people captured in each photograph, but you don't recognize them.

Shows photographs as mentioned above on a hanger. Among them are photographs of a mailman and some other individuals

You notice a middle aged man in a couple of the photographs who looks familiar. You can almost hear his voice just by looking at it, but you can't place where it's from.
→ [O:3-1]

[O:3-1.3 Sink]

Inside the sink, you notice a couple stains that remind of something you've seen before… or is it just the red light of the room?

The timer that sits on top of the barrels to the right currently reads: 13 seconds. The analog timer seems to be very worn out, with some stains on the bottom as well. The barrels beneath the timer are labeled, but the labels are no longer legible.

In between the barrels, you notice a piece of crumpled paper that seems to be a hand-written letter.

[OPTIONS: 3-2]

- Pick up paper [O:3-2.1]

[O:3-2.1 Pick up paper]

(3.1)You pick up the paper between the barrels.

You open up the paper, it seems to be a bit wet from the stains on the sink:

Dear xxx:

I've really been enjoying our conversation through the letters! To be honest with you, although it's been so long since we last met, somehow it still feels like the old days! I'm loving the photos that you take and really want to see how you take them in person. If at all possible, I think I wanna go visit you sometime soon, if that is okay with you? :)

Please let me know.
Yours,
Sherry

(M3.2-)You feel a sudden twitch inside your chest, as if something is gripping onto your heart. You carefully lay the letter onto the table to your right to ensure that it doesn't get wet.

On the edge of the table, you attempt to flatten the letter but no matter how hard you try, it always curls back up wrinkled.

As you continue staring at the letter, you notice your right palm feeling wet. You had clenched your hand so hard, the fingernails pierced the skin.

A sudden sense of helplessness surrounds you, and as you stand right beneath the safe light, careful to not let any part of you be touched by the darkness.

It feels as though the darkness itself is watching you quietly, observing your every movement, hearing your every breath, waiting to swallow you until you are no more.

(M1.2-)You can't breathe, and all you can hear is the sound of your lungs trying hard to catch a breath at the center of the room.

Before you even realize it, you find yourself kneeling on the floor, squeezing your head with your hands.

"Nononononononononononononononononononononono"

(-M1.2)“C’mon…you need to keep it together… ”

You attempt to stand back up, but your strength has almost entirely left you. Desperately, you crawl over to the table in the center of the room.

As you reach the table, you extend your hand to grab onto the edge.

You get back up on your feet, and as soon as you see the crumpled letter, you grab it, tear it to pieces, and then throw them onto the floor.

“Sherry…”

(M3.3-)You whisper the name from the letter, and as you try to remember anything about that name, your head starts hurting.

You once again see flashbacks of the black and white and color photos that were in your dream. But within those photos, you don’t seem to recognize anyone that could possibly be “Sherry”.

You then look to your right, and see the negatives hanging on the hanger.

(-M3.3)(-M3.1)You hear nothing, as if all sound has been sucked away from the world.

(1.9)You stand up, and move towards the hanger.

(3.2)You take down the negatives other than the ones labeled as “printed” from the hanger. You raise the negatives up under the safelight, trying to identify the images captured within them.

You see some shapes on them, but could not identify what they are.

"Probably need to print these out…"

(M3.5-)You lay the negatives on the table. As you stare at them, you again see the image of the black/white and color photos in your head.
Shows flashback of black/white and color photos

"What is all this...about…"

You shake your head a little, as if you are trying to shake the things stuck in your head out of your mind.

(-M3.5)"I think it'll be better if I print them as…"

[BRANCH 1]

1. Black and White
2. Colored

{B-1: Backward Line}

"I guess black and white has always been my thing huh…"

"Does have that old-timey feel to it…"

(3.3)After cutting the negatives into smaller pieces, you approach the sink to set the timer.

Just before you are about to set it to 60 seconds, you notice that the timer is currently pointing at 14 seconds.

"Weird…"

(3.4)You set the timer, and before you press start on it, you again see the image of the photos inside your mind, but this time, you no longer see the colored ones.

(M1.3)You turn around and stare at the safelight. The red glow is making you a little uncomfortable. You look across the light, and realize that you can't really see the other side of the room from this angle.

(3.5)All you can hear is water dripping from the sink. As if time has slowed down, the gap between each drip feels like a minute long.

"Here we go."

(3.6)You press start on the timer.
